2. There are separate audio files for the PSA in English and Spanish. They can be found on the CSLP website under the same section as the PSA videos - the audio files will be listed first. These are for folks who wish to send something to a radio station or play the audio file at a story time, event, or at the end of a library film.

3. People have asked if there is a difference between the film quality on the DVD versus the film quality of the downloadable files. Essentially the quality of the file or format will depend on the type of screen or device you are playing the PSA on. High definition digital files will look best on LCD monitors, flat panel monitors, iPads, or other handheld devices. Television stations will also want these types of files for broadcast. If you are using older televisions or even older computer monitors (anything square and like a box), playing the PSA from a DVD will be the best quality for you. Note that there is now also a link on the PSA page to iPhone/iPad optimized files. If you have any questions about which specific type of file you should be downloading contact Charlotte Johnston, CSLP - PR & Marketing Chair, at cmjohnstonlibrarian@gmail.com.

Official Teen Video Challenge Announcement

The Collaborative Summer Library Program (CSLP) announces the winners of the 2013 Teen Video Challenge.

This video competition is in its third year of encouraging teens to get involved with promoting summer reading and public libraries with a focus on the CSLP 2013 slogan "Beneath the Surface." Each participating state selected one winning video to be named the official CSLP Teen Video Challenge state winner for 2013. More information about Florida's winner can be found in the April issue of FLYP Forward.

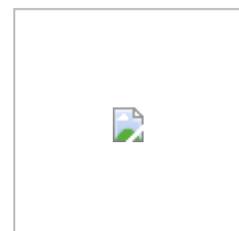

To view this year's winning videos, please visit the CSLP website. The winning videos can be used by all teens and all public libraries to promote summer reading nationwide.

CSLP plans to continue the Teen Video Challenge for 2014. Please check the CSLP website in early fall for information on the 2014 Teen Video Challenge.

ALSC Announces Summer Reading Book Lists for K-8th Grade

The Association for Library Service to Children (ALSC), a division of the American Library Association (ALA), has created three summer reading book lists for elementary and middle school students.

These summer reading lists are available for students Kindergarten to 2nd grade, 3rd to 5th grade, and 6th to 8th grade. PDFs of the book lists are available online in full color and black and white and are free to download, copy, and distribute. Libraries are able to customize the book list with their own information, summer hours, and summer programs for children before printing and distributing to patrons and schools.

YALSA Virtual Chats

May 6 was the kickoff of YALSA and Connectedlearning.tv's month-long exploration of the future of teens and libraries. You can view the recordings; anyone is welcome to attend and participate, and no registration is required. Upcoming e-chats are:

- May 21: Getting Library & IT Administrators On-Board with Leveraging Social Media
- May 28: Teens and the Future of Libraries: Sharing Best Practices

Each virtual chat will take place from 1:00 - 2:00 p.m. ET. YALSA President H. Jack Martin and Crystle Martin, Postdoctoral Researcher for the Connected Learning Research Network, will be the moderators for these free virtual chats, which will look at the roles social media and teens play in the future of public and school libraries.

Participants can watch in real time, connect via chat with others, ask questions on Livestream, watch live on the Connected Learning Google+ Page, and contribute to the #futureoflibraries conversation on Twitter. Be sure to check the YALSAblog the month of May, where discussions will continue. After the last session, connectedlearning.tv and YALSA will put together a free summary report with tools and resources for librarians and library workers to use in their libraries.

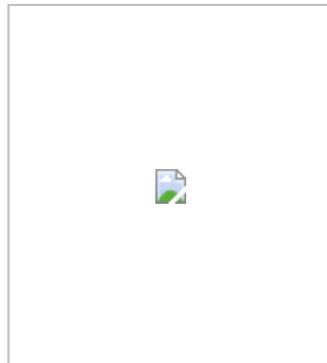

Sunshine State Library Leadership Institute

The primary goal of the Institute is to assist in preparing library leaders to provide the highest quality library services to the citizens of Florida in the most effective and innovative manner that will meet today's needs and tomorrow's challenges.

The Institute is open to individuals from all types of libraries (public, academic, school, and special). It is designed for professional librarians, as well as those in management positions without a master's degree in Library Science. Candidates should have a minimum of two years professional library experience and demonstrated successful professional work experience.

The deadline for applications is June 14, 2013. More information is available.

Sunshine State Young Readers Award Program

The Sunshine State Young Readers Award (SSYRA) is a reading motivation program for students in 3rd - 8th grade designed to entice students to read high-interest, contemporary literature for personal enjoyment. The long-term goal of the program is to nurture lifelong readers who will continue to read for information needs and personal pleasure.

Started in 1984, this program is co-sponsored by the Florida Department of Education's Office of Library Media and the Florida Association for Media in Education (FAME).

The following lists have just been issued for 2013-2014.

- SSYRA 2013-2014 - Elementary (3rd - 5th Grade)
- SSYRA 2013-2014 - Middle School (6th - 8th Grade)

Florida Library Youth Program

FLYP Forward provides information about the Florida Library Youth Program and Florida's public libraries.

The Florida Library Youth Program is funded under the provisions of the Library Services and Technology Act, from the Institute of Museum and Library Services, administered by the Florida Department of State's Division of Library and Information Services.
